OCTOBER 1, 2023 † TWENTY-SIXTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

From The Pastor

To live the Christian life as presented by Jesus is not easy. Sounds good on paper: God of love and mercy, ready forgiveness, endless love and patience, and the promise of eternal life. How can you go wrong? The fruit of the Cross has its cost.

Self-giving love is difficult in the best of circumstances. Self-giving love under the weight of sin, selfishness, desire for control, and the inclination for personal comfort can be easily dismissed as unreasonable or impossible. Consider the second reading today which conveys the reality of what we profess in Jesus as our Christ and God.

For the sake of our redemption, Jesus willingly rejects or sets aside his rightful glory as the Divine Son. He becomes fully human subject to the limitations of our human experience, short of sin. He totally empties himself becoming subject to the slavery of our sin. In obedience, he surrenders himself to a humiliating and torturous death on a Cross. A death that leads to his Resurrection and ours. His death brings death to our sin in the overpowering truth of Divine love and mercy. Because of this, God the Father exalts him above every person and thing, that at the name of Jesus all in heaven, on earth, and under the earth will proclaim Jesus Christ as Lord to the glory of God.

The second reading helps us to see more clearly the message of the first reading and the gospel. If you have not yet realized and accepted that you are a weak and vulnerable human being along with the rest of us, today is a good day to wake up and smell the coffee. The humility of Jesus challenges us to the humble and honest admission of our sins and our essential need for redemption.

The first reading captures a common human disposition. "...The Lord's ways are not fair." God's response, "Is it my way that is unfair, or rather, are not your ways unfair." The people had turned from God through idols and disordered living. They found themselves exiles in Babylon and whined about their painful circumstance.

Sin serves as its own punishment. Disordered ways of living create disordered consequences of life. God points out this reality through the respect given to humanity in the gift of free will. If you turn from the ways of virtue to the ways of sin, you will be lost. If you change your mind and turn from sin, returning to virtue, you will find life. As the essence of love, God will not force us to follow the Divine way. Mature, sincere love cannot be forced. We are free to choose.

To say God is not fair mimics the human inclination to whine, blame, and project fault anywhere but where it belongs. Accusing another of the fault we know as our own disobeys the nature of love, which is the nature and truth of God.

The gospel conveys the same reality with a shocking twist that reveals the mercy of God. The parable is directed to the chief priests and the elders; those who hold others to the Laws of God, but they do not follow. It serves as a perfect image of free will as well as the wisdom to change one's mind and heart. The image reveals the necessity of personal responsibility. This was the same challenge in the first reading.

For centuries, Israel held sin as a matter of national conscience. God's 'punishment' was a national matter. God's message through the Prophet Ezekiel challenged the people to an individual conscience of personal responsibility. Each person, in their desire to honor and worship the Lord, must have a personal relationship with God that calls for honesty and humility. Sins can be confessed, repented, and forgiven, rather than hidden, blamed, or scapegoated onto another.

The first son in the gospel responds with a quick, "I will not go." Later, changing his mind, he does his father's will. The second son, just as quickly says, "Yes sir," but he did not go. Which of the two did the father's will? The first son. He changed his mind out of reverence for the relationship with his father and obeyed him. The second son, as an image of the chief priests and elders, pretended to obey but did not, and likely had no intention to obey his father.

Now the shock. The elders and priests are teachers of God's Law, but they do not practice it. They heard the words of John the Baptist but would not accept them. They saw the powerful words and deeds of Jesus but would not change their minds and believe in him. No personal relationship here. Merely lip service to God with little commitment to live the Divine way.

Jesus makes it clear. "Amen, I say to you, the tax collectors and prostitutes are entering the kingdom of God before you." Why? They knew they were sinners. They were honest about it. When they heard God's word in John, and realized the mercy of Jesus, they accepted it. They changed their minds and hearts and sought a personal relationship with Jesus. In his love, they were set free. The way of humility and self-giving is hard. The Cross of Jesus was not easy, but he did it for us out of perfect love. Be honest with yourself, and with God. Change your mind and surrender to the love of Christ. No blame, whining, or excuses needed.

26th Sunday in Ordinary Time

A life-long Catholic friend of mine recently mumbled to me, “I can’t stand all these converts to the faith. They’re always rocking the boat.” It surprised me because he is dedicated to evangelization, and yet he struggles with openness to new Catholics. It made me realize how easily I close my heart to those whom I perceive to be outsiders who become new members of the Catholic community. Almost unconsciously I reduce the world to the categories of “us” and “them.” The result is that meaningful community silently shrinks in my life. Don’t we all do that to some degree?

This week Jesus’ punchy parable about the two sons blows up that black and white world. One son said he wouldn’t get to work, and then did. The other said he would, and then he did not. “Which did the will of his father?” asks the Lord. Like so many of us, in identifying the first as the answer, the religious authorities manifest hidden hypocrisy in refusing to follow Jesus. They — like us — intuit the correct path but simply won’t do it. The tax collectors and prostitutes are indeed following Jesus and thereby getting to work in the kingdom of God. Everyone is called to do God’s will regardless of the labels we may apply to them.

This week let’s reject the convenient but damaging categories of “insiders” and “outsiders.” Instead, let’s embrace a grateful attitude that Jesus is calling fallen, weak, and broken men and women like you and me. Then we begin to see that the tax collectors and prostitutes aren’t them. They are us. And Jesus wants all of us working in his boat, no matter the rocking.

HISTORY OF THE ROSARY

Question: What is the history of the rosary? Where did this prayer come from?

Answer: Although a longstanding tradition attributed the rosary to Saint Dominic and the Dominican Order, the practice of using beads to count prayers predates the Dominicans by a few hundred years. In fact, it seems that what we now think of as the rosary (which means "garland of roses") was first developed by illiterate peasants and religious brothers and sisters as a way of offering 150 "Our Fathers" to replace the praying of the 150 psalms in the Divine Office.

The practice of reciting 150 Hail Marys (which was later subdivided into 15 decades of 10 Hail Marys) arose during the late Middle Ages. Devotion to the rosary began to flourish in the nineteenth century, especially as new devotions to Mary began to spread throughout Europe and the New World. An annual liturgical celebration of Our Lady of the Rosary was introduced into the Church calendar in 1573 and it has been observed on the date of October 7 since 1913.

In the apostolic letter On the Most Holy Rosary, Pope Saint John Paul II not only added five new mysteries to the traditional fifteen, but he also reminded Catholics that the rosary is, at its core, an opportunity to go deeper into the life of Jesus: "The rosary, though clearly Marian in character, is at heart a Christocentric prayer ... It has all the depth of the Gospel message in its entirety, of which it can be said to be a compendium. It is an echo of Mary's prayer, her perennial Magnificat".

GETTING TO KNOW OUR SAINTS...

FEAST OF THE GUARDIAN ANGELS OCTOBER 2

It's good to know we're not alone. This October 2nd we celebrate the feast of our guardian angels. This ancient belief has roots in Scripture. In Matthew's Gospel, Jesus implies the special guiding care of the angels. "See that you do not despise one of these little ones, for I say to you that their angels in heaven always look upon the face of my heavenly Father" (Matthew 18:10). Our guardian angels are given to us by God to protect and watch over us from the moment of our conception until the hour of death. Let's pray together to our own heavenly help:

Prayer to Your Guardian Angel

Angel of God, my guardian dear, to whom God's love commits me here, ever this day be at my side to light, to guard, to rule, and to guide. Amen.

ST. FRANCIS OF ASSISI
FEAST DAY OCTOBER 4

St. Francis of Assisi (1181 – 1226) left a life of luxury for a life devoted to Christianity after reportedly hearing the voice of God, who commanded him to rebuild the Christian church and live in poverty. He founded the men's Order of Friars Minor, the women's Order of St. Clare, the Third Order of St. Francis and the Custody of the Holy Land.

Born in 1181 in Italy, St. Francis of Assisi was renowned for drinking and partying as a youth. During a military expedition/battle between Assisi and Perugia, he was captured and imprisoned for ransom. He spent nearly a year in prison and began receiving visions from God. After his release from prison, St. Francis of Assisi claimed to have heard the voice of Christ, who told him to restore the Christian Church and live a life of poverty. As a result, St. Francis of Assisi abandoned his life of luxury and became a devotee of the Catholic faith.

Today, St. Francis of Assisi, known for his deep love of nature and animals, is the patron saint of the environment and animals. Each October, many animals are blessed on his feast day. ©LPi

Announcements From the Parish Nurse

September was Prostate Cancer Awareness Month. Should you get screened for prostate cancer? The answer is different for each man. Talk to your doctor about your risk and learn about the possible benefits and harms of screening. If diagnosed early, many prostate cancers grow slowly and don't cause any health problems. If you decide not to get screened, you can change your mind later. You can get screened anytime you have a doctor's appointment.

October is breast cancer awareness month, an annual campaign to raise awareness about the impact of breast cancer. Wear pink in support of survivors, those we lost, and support the progress in breast cancer treatments to defeat breast cancer. You have the power to help yourself and others to pursue a healthy life.
